RENEWED TESTIMONY

No one in Norway who suffers backache, headaches, or distressing urinary ills can afford to ignore this Norway man's twice-told story. It is confirmed testimony that no Norway resident can doubt.

S. C. Foster, barber, Main St., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and I am only too glad to say to others I think they are the best of kidney medicines. Several years ago I had a little kidney trouble. I got Doan's Kidney Pills at F. P. Stone's Drug Store, and I was soon feeling all right again. I remained so for a long time, but later caught cold and my kidneys gave me trouble. I again took Doan's Kidney Pills and they gave me relief." (Statement given July 24, 1908.)

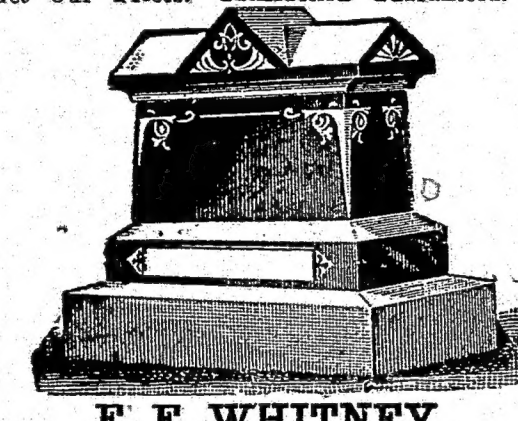

On June 6, 1916 Mr. Foster added: "I think as well of Doan's Kidney Pills to-day as when I first endorsed them. I use them occasionally, as I feel in need of them and I am always promptly benefited."

SEND THE HOME PAPER

Keep the Soldier Boys Posted
Many people have doubtless asked themselves the question: Will my boy, granted he is spared through the conflict, return to his home, or will he be content to remain in some other country or some other part of this country? And this is a question we may all well ask. When this war is over there is going to be great inducement for our boys to settle down away from their homes and become citizens of other countries. The war will serve as a refiner, separating the dross from the pure gold, and the young man who comes through with honor untarnished will be eagerly sought to fill places of honor and trust.

Now we naturally are anxious that our boys do not forget the old home or become weaned from home associations. We want them to carry ever with them a vivid picture of the home joys and pleasures as they knew them before Uncle Sam called them to sterner duties. We want their allegiance to hold to the old home with all the old home stands for in their lives.

To this end, are we taking the right course to keep the memory of home ever green with them? You say you are writing regularly, and giving them all the news of interest you know. Yes, but this is probably but a drop in the bucket to what they would learn were they with us. Every boy should receive his home paper regularly. He should be able to learn to tell all that is transpiring back at home, and to have as it were a bird's-eye view of the social and business life of his home community. Home associations should never be permitted to fade from his memory but should be renewed with every issue of his home paper.

In numbers of communities the home paper is being sent to every soldier who has gone from that community, frequently through some public organization. No better action could be taken by a board of trade, commercial club, home defense organization or any other organization than to send each soldier his home paper for the duration of the war. It will show to the boys that not only have the folks at home not forgotten a single one of them, but they also shall forget his home through their neglect to keep memories of that home ever green in his heart.

Every traveler is familiar with the news stands in all the principal cities of the country where a sign similar to this is prominently displayed: "If you're a soldier, we have the paper." And every traveler knows the thrill of pleasure with which he seized the old home sheet and lost himself in the familiar contents.

Whatever else your boy may be deprived of, be sure he has his home paper. It will pay well on the investment.

Glenwood

Comfort And Saving

Go hand in hand—to the fortunate owner of a modern Glenwood Range. No spoiled food, no wasted fuel or loss of heat—everything is right from grate to damper in this truly wonderful range.

It pays for itself many times over in the convenience and satisfaction it brings to the home. Get one and be glad ever after.

"Makes Cooking Easy"

Every Soldier Leaves His Job Behind

Every scrap of work that was done by men now in the trenches or camps is passed on to us who stay at home. We not only have to do their former work, but we have to take on additional work to keep them fit to fight.

We are getting better pay for our services than ever before. It is true that it costs more to live. But it is also true that no people ever went through a war for their lives without having to put up with certain hardships.

Most men have thought this all out and are ready to do—not as they have done in the past—but anything more that must be done to win.

We are all equally concerned. We must all get busy and stay busy to save ourselves. We must work harder than ever before, and on top of that we must save more than ever before.

Thrift means careful spending—

Europe has raised billions by selling us back our securities and borrowing money of us. We have no foreign securities to sell, nor any foreign country to borrow from. We must save our money to provide funds for the Government and for ourselves.

The Norway National Bank
NORWAY, MAINE

The time to swat the fly has come. Every fly killed now will save a wholesale slaughter later on. Manure and other breeding places should be covered or destroyed and flies prevented from developing. A little care in the spring may save much trouble, annoyance and sickness later on.

In the afternoon they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Hobson and daughter and Rilla Marston. Some of the syrup was made into sheep skins and served on snow that was delicious. Music was furnished on a Grafonola and quite a number of interesting snap-shots were taken of the party, and all received an invitation to visit them there next year.

TEACHER SHORTAGE

The present indications are that there will be a shortage of teachers in September and from 1800 to 2000 will be needed to supply the demand. Many teachers have taken other positions for year around work. There is a national call for an increase in the teachers' wages, which will be hard to meet at this time, but is being done gradually.

It is hoped that many of our most promising young people who have graduated from our high schools and academies and who will graduate this year may be induced to enter this important branch of our country's service. This is a patriotic duty and those who accept the call will be helping not only to win the war, but to preserve our free institutions when war is over.

Norway Town Clock Changed Saturday

The "Daylight Saving Plan" started officially in Norway at 5:22 Saturday afternoon when Eugene C. Libby, who is guardian over the town clock made the change after concluding his weekly "grind" in the tower.

A large group of interested spectators lined Main street long before the hour announced for the change, and remained steadfast until the hands advanced. Although the principal timepiece was ahead of the official schedule, it failed to upset business or knock out the usual Saturday evening engagements by an additional stroke each hour.

Notes From Marilla M. Ricker

"I see Dr. F. H. Cummings of Portland has 'sat down on me' from the top of the house because I've told some truth about Ananias Teddy. Do you 'know him' I don't, but am not afraid."

"I thought Ananias made an ordinary speech in Portland. I saw nothing about Bill Hayes, the new National Chairman."

Boston papers have a picture of Teddy holding his latest grandson in his arms. I think he'd make a better nurse than President. He is coming here soon to make a great speech."

Bouldie Defended Champion Belt

Kid Bouldie of Rochester, N. Y., won easily over Kid Dionne of Lewiston in a three round wrestling bout at Norway Opera House, Thursday evening, Mar. 28.

This was a challenge match by Kid Dionne, who wished to copy the New England lightweight championship and belt held by Kid Bouldie. Bouldie won the first fall in 19:12 minutes, the third in 45 minutes, Kid Dionne secured the second drop in 11:12 minutes. Homer Truman was referee and Mickey Welch timekeeper.

The bill opened fast and the show moved along in a breezy manner, with Bouldie the aggressor during the first round. Some rough stuff was pulled while playing for wind but in the light of later happenings this was grand stand play. On the whole the supposed championship show divided into an exhibition with the winner picked before hand.

Manager Stairs was ignorant of the inside dope until an easy fall in the second round convinced all that the show would develop no fight and the belt would never change hands.

The curtain raiser before the main show proved the redeeming feature of the evening. In the preliminary Kid (Arthur) Ham landed two falls from Kid Lap-ham in 7:12 and 6:12 minutes. During the semi-final Kid (Albert) Payne of Norway and Young Dionne of Lewiston went a fast exhibition. Dionne secured the first fall in 13:12 minutes, Payne captured the next in 11 minutes, but the third was declared a draw.

Bouldie after a twenty minute trudge, er wrestler gaining any winning hold. Young Dionne is a brother of Kid Dionne and a nimble wrestler. He played a very him every minute frequently showing superior strength. The Lewiston youth was highly trained with frequently sprag eagle posing, but was unable to lay out for a win the less sensational Norway Kid.

The United States Food Administration Says

Plant a Victory Garden

If you love your native land, put fertilizer on it and seeds into it.

The man with an empty back lot ought not to be permitted to fly Old Glory from the front steps.

We don't want any amateur landscape gardeners this year—we want men of all types to get out and turn over the soil and plant beans, corn, peas, cabbages and tomatoes.

In the name of those boys with the colors, plant a garden.

The care of those gardens must be followed through. Weeds that cut production are pro-German.

Plant a garden and make the other fellow plant one.

We are Headquarters for Fertilizers, Seeds, Garden Tools, Insecticides, and everything for the garden.

HARKEN BACK ON THE PAST

Thirty Years Ago This Week

Can makers at Burnham & Morrill's factory at South Paris are making 5,000 cans per day. They will make over 600,000 this year. No more hand made cans. All are now factory made.

W. H. Warren of Norway has hauled 150,000 feet of logs from the J. N. Baker farm in Waterford to the sled factory at South Paris. He has also hauled 500 cords of poplar from Hebron.

Mr. Warren died some years ago—and his widow is now living with her daughter, Mrs. Geo. A. Brooks on Water street, where she has made her home since her daughter, Jessie, died at Cornish, Me.

Ben F. Spinnery of Lynn, Mass., was in town this week. He is the senior partner of the shoe firm. Mr. Spinnery has retired from the shoe business, also of the Lynn Bank of which he was president for many years, but is now living in good physical condition at considerably past 80.

Nate Denison is bookkeeper for the Atlantic National Bank of Boston. He has been for many years and is now assistant cashier to the bank. He lives in Framingham and has a son 20 odd years of age.

Hon. Geo. A. Wilson is a good story teller. During a recess of the Municipal court he related the following: "When my father was pastor of the church on Paris Hill the youngsters were particular to look after to see that they attended divine services instead of going off fishing and so on. Well, Joe Holt's father and mother were converted but somehow Joe managed to keep away from church. And I apprehend," said the Judge then, "that you was an attentive listener."

"That you made a mistake in dodging the meetings. Isn't that so?" Joe joined heartily in the general laugh that followed but did not attempt to reply.

Twenty-six Years Ago This Week

Wednesday afternoon J. H. Hazleton took two fine "records" of songs sung by George W. Horne for the phonograph.

Royal C. Gammon was injured quite severely Wednesday afternoon at the saw mill of C. B. Cummings & Sons. A fellow workman in using an axe on a log brought it back accidentally striking Mr. Gammon on the head and making a severe wound in which it was necessary to take several stitches.

Capt. Benj. Loring of Yarmouth visited in town this week.

Leonard Flint and wife have been hired to take charge of the town farm for the next year, salary $400. Mr. Flint died a few years back also his son recently.

Isaac Noyes remembered the Advertiser with his annual gift of maple syrup, Monday. He is still living at 84, but confined in doors and shakes more if possible than he did years ago.

A Norway Board of Trade was organized. The meeting was called to order in Engine House Hall, but the large number attending necessitated moving to the Opera House. C. E. Holt was elected president, Geo. L. Reed and George A. Cole, vice presidents, Fredland Howe, secretary and Chas. P. Ridlon, treasurer. A constitution and by-laws were adopted. Over fifty became members of the association. It yet survives with Dr. I. K. Moorhouse secretary and treasurer.

M. L. Kimball has come home from his school in Ellsworth. He is now in the Internal Revenue Service with headquarters in Portland.

J. W. Holden is a signed letter offers to debate with Mark Tanley (Wm. Emory) on the question of the earth's revolving. He closes his letter with these words: "I propose to lecture on astronomy wherever I may be waited for a small compensation and show to the public that the earth does not revolve nor shoot around the sun." Later on he did lecture to a good sized audience in Concert Hall and Judge S. S. Stearns presided, who by a rising vote of thanks was able to dismiss the audience.

Twenty-four Years Ago This Week

I. N. Small has sold his house at the foot of Pike's Hill to B. M. Pratt. It is yet owned by him and occupied by the regiment had lost its Colonel, Lieutenant Col. and Major and every Captain in the regiment, except two, Capt. A. M. Edwards was then promoted to Major and took charge of the regiment, the remainder of the time during the battle of Gettysburg.

When they called the roll, they had only 95 men left out of the whole regiment that was fit for duty. The rest of the regiment were all killed, wounded, or taken prisoner.

Major Edwards was soon promoted to Colonel for his bravery at the Battle of Gettysburg. The next hard fought battle he was in, he had his horse shot from under him and five bullets shot through his cap, but he lived through four long years of cruel war and after that he was custom house officer for many years. He passed away about seven years ago, leaving a brilliant war record.

A few good war time recipes tested and found good:

Graham Rolls

One cup cold water, two tablespoons vinegar, one teaspoonful of soda dissolved in the water and vinegar, two tablespoons of molasses, a pinch of salt, one and one-half cups graham. Bake in gem pans in a hot oven.

Molasses Cookies

One cup molasses, two-thirds cup of hot water, one-half cup of water, two teaspoonsful of soda and one of salt, one of ginger and one-half teaspoonful of ground nutmeg, flour to roll.

Meatless Mince Pie

Four cups chopped apple, one cup chopped raisins, four tablespoonsful vinegar, spices to taste, molasses enough to mix to the thickness of ordinary mince meat. This will make four pies. Whole raisins dropped over the top of the pie and bits of butter would improve it.

Graham Pudding

One and one-half cups graham, one cup sweet milk, one-half cup molasses, one teaspoonful soda, a pinch of salt, one cup chopped raisins. Steam 3 hours. Serve with whipped cream or any nice pudding sauce. Very nice.

Some time ago I got a letter from Col. Fred E. Boothby of Waterville enclosing an invitation to attend a Knights Templar Reception at Norway on Feb. 2d, 1887. The hand writing on the invitation is clearly that of the late Gen. G. L. Beal, who was a life long friend of Col. Boothby.

On the invitations are the names of 20 prominent business men of that time. Only four are now living. This was 31 years ago last February and comes easily within my memory and many others who attended that night, yet time seems to have dealt severely with the Invitation Committee. Here are the names:

Geo. L. Beal

Geo. A. Cole
George C. Norworthy
Henry B. Drury

LOCAL PICK UPS

"But he has a nice family," is a term signifying that he, himself, doesn't amount to much.

I'm in great luck! Have contacted for the usual supply of soft coal. "Shall feel easier, however, when it's in the cellar. John Cullinan before the war, had a habit of doing as he agreed, but uncertainty prevails in everything now.

Two mighty good local papers are being issued in Farmington. I wish the Chronical could get their extra sheet inside the main paper as I dislike to see a good local paper come in sections.

The boy said: "I am told at school 'figures won't lie' but ain't so. You ought to see my sister at home and on the street. You'll then be convinced I'm right."

A South Paris man discovered that the entrance to Norway's post office is "left handed." I've always known there was something wrong about those doors, but what it was, I could not say. Had Dinsmore, the mechanical constructor of the block, isn't left-handed and how those doors got into that shape is beyond me.

The lost key is returned. After months of wandering, Ben Bicknell recognized the writing on the envelope and returned the key to this office. I didn't advertise as I didn't know the key was lost, but it shows that Ben is familiar with the marks I call writing. Else why the return?

Do you suppose the American Tel. and Tel. Company would be as efficient as at present if it were taken over by the Government? I do not. Neither are the railroads. Results are proving this.

The Father said: "I would prefer my son to be killed dead while standing up and fighting like a man, than that he should run and disgrace the family."

"There are a lot of people who lie awake nights waiting and listening lest the public go wrong. These guardians seldom achieve much and are usually buried at the expense of their friends."

The spider draws poison out of a flower: the bee gets honey out of a thistle, but happiness is the heavenly elixir of a contented mind.

Some business men advertise in every entertainment program that comes along, although each of them hits only a section of the town, while they turn down the newspaper that reaches the whole community.

True Morrill is at a loss whether he will welcome spring or not, for he says: "When I shed my overcoat I've got to have a new suit of clothes."

A soldier in battle saw a terribly frightened rabbit run at top speed to the rear and said: "Go it, cotton-tail: I'd run too if I had no more reputation to lose than you have."

The local newspaper editor is much pleased to receive all items of news from reliable sources. Some people hesitate to send in items for fear that they will be thought to be self advertisers. The editor entertains no such thought, and there is no good reason why such a feeling should be entertained.

The newspaper man is very grateful for bits of news sent in, and the feeling of gratefulness is not diminished by the fact that the items may be about the writer himself or herself.

If people would only feel a live interest in the home paper, an interest that would not only induce them to read it but also contribute news and ideas and suggestions as well as just criticisms, the paper would be of vastly increased interest and value in the community.

If you have any news items to send or suggestions or criticisms to make to the local paper, send them in.

I've been invited to become a member of the "Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America, Riggs Building, Washington, D. C."

Now that is so distinguished. It costs only $25.00. I have respectfully declined and suggest Capt. J. Waldo Nash as a substitute, if this community must be represented on that board.

I am looking on a picture of Camp Brockton and party taken by J. W. Swan in June 1886. I remember the day, the time, the party, the scenery and the circumstances attending it as though it was but yesterday. Thirty-two years come June. That merry fishing party of a dozen is now divided 50-50. Those living are:

J. F. Huntington, Augusta, Me.
Chas. A. Woodbury, Somerville, Mass.
Eugene F. Hayden, Norway.

Frank A. Towne, Norway.
Frank H. Noyes, Norway.
Fred W. Sanborn, Norway.

Those who have passed over:
George P. Young, Norway.
Luther Littlehale, Riley.
J. Wesley Swan, Montreal, P. Q.
Henry H. Freeman, Boston, Mass.
Eugene W. Bartlett, Norway.
Stillman N. Littlehale, Riley.

The picture was found at C. B. Cummings & Sons Co.'s, Bemis Boarding House and sent me through the kindness of E. S. Cummings, who rightly guessed of it. I would be pleased with it. He says I look "like a kid." Why shouldn't I? I was just past 31; and filled with hope, energy and enthusiasm.

The camp is still kept in good shape and I have made annual pilgrimages to it being 1916 to date. The handy trout fishing is a memory except as you go way up in the wilderness, yet I shall visit there as long as I am able—roads and bridges permitting. The picture I shall keep.

having received a picture of it a few days before, taken by Miss Lizzie Beal, I struck out to find it. I procured a team as before the days of autos—and took as many friends as possible and when I got back they all claimed I pointed out a dozen houses in which I was born and that I didn't really know where it was—which perhaps was about right. I saw Mr. Ephraim Brown going by and remembered he was one of my father's neighbors, I called to him to help me out. He said he did not exactly know, but was going home to dinner and would ask his wife and some back and call me. After dinner, while we were sitting on the piazza of the Beal's House, Mr. Brown came up and said: 'Mr. Boothby my wife says you are right and furthermore she was there at the time. This settled the controversy and the place where I first saw the light of day was proven by living witnesses.'

Obituary: "April 1st. Died at midnight, March, the eldest and ugliest of the three sisters whose family name is Spring, aged 31 days. Too long she lived, too late she died."

Her life it was a stormy tide. A tide of wind and snow and storms. A tide of all that spring deforms.

I am glad she is dead. I always hated her, although I put in an appearance on the 18th of March, 1840. She had no right to call herself a Spring month. She lived too near old Mr. February and doubtless is illegitimate daughter of winter. I hate her."

The above was sent in by Mrs. Marilla M. Hicker of Boston who delights to club Roosevelt and other saints.

REMINISCENCES OF THE WAR

Col. Albert H. Edwards, Albany, fitted for college at Gould's Academy in Bethel and then went West and entered the College at Ann Arbor University in Mich.

At the commencement of the Civil War, April 1861, he left and went into the first Michigan regiment for three months at the first battle of Bull Run, the very day he was sent out, while on the retreat toward Washington and suffering with thirst. He, with others, stopped to fill their canteens with water and the first thing they knew they were all surrounded by the rebel soldiers and were all taken prisoners and kept in the southern prison and almost starved to death.

He came very near his death twice, while in prison. It was against the rules for one of the prisoners to stand or sit, close by a window. One day he was sitting near the window and the outside guard fired his gun at him, the bullet struck in the window stool close by his head. He called out and told the outside guard he was not a very good marksman, and got away from the window as soon as possible.

In the winter of 1862 the North captured two men by the name of Mason and Slidell, who were considered spies for the South. Word was out that they would be hung a few days later. Jeff Davis president of the Southern Confederacy gave out word that if President Lincoln hung those two men (Mason and Slidell) that he would take all of the officers in that prison and have them hung. He went so far as to have the gallows erected and picked out his men and among the officers picked out was Col. A. M. Edwards. He said they laughed and made fun over the gallows that was placed just in front of the rebel prison. After Lincoln heard how many officers had got to be hung if he hung these two men he sent word to Jeff Davis that he would not hang Mason and Slidell. Soon after that the gallows in front of the prison was taken down. Later on there was an exchange of prisoners and A. M. Edwards was one of the lucky ones that got free.

He came North as soon as he could and made a visit at the old homestead with his mother, brother and sister, and gave a few lectures, telling how our prisoners were abused, then went back to Detroit, Mich., and got up a company of which he was chosen Capt. and his company helped make up the 24th Michigan Regiment and this regiment with three other regiments made up one brigade which, on account of the heroic courage this brigade had, while in nearly all of the hard-fought battles of the war, it was known, and called, the Erin Brigade.

The 24th Michigan regiment went into the battle of Gettysburg and held the front line of battle all day. At night the regiment had lost its Colonel, Lieutenant Col. and Major and every Captain in the regiment, except two, Capt. A. M. Edwards was then promoted to Major and took charge of the regiment, the remainder of the time during the battle of Gettysburg.

KINDNESS

Like the sweet strains of music swelling From some hidden cloister near, Or the last rays of sunlight lingering To bathe all the billows with cheer. So thoughts and deeds of kindness On life's common-way of sun, Shut out the shades of darkness And let the sunlight in. Too oft in this world of doubting We long for some word of cheer, Some timely thought and loving From hearts that we hold most dear. Ay, we long for some word of cheering, The clasp of a friendly hand, 'Twere a hapless fate to journey Estranged, in a dreary land. Jennie E. Snow Kimball.

THOUGHT

When alone I often ponder On the rough things of this life— Why the terrible war should be That is causing all this strife. Why our boys are taken from us And compelled to cross the sea, Paying as too dear a forfeit Their hearts' blood for Liberty. These, our own, our dearest loved ones, Taken from their childhood home, Leaving mother, father, sister, And kind friends their loss to mourn. We are left to hourly wonder, While our many tears are shed, If they're suffering from hunger Or if numbered with the dead. As the storms are sent upon us, And the winds so bleak and wild— We are tossed on life's high billows Helpless as a little child. You too, no doubt, do ponder On these things that seem so hard, But we should not any longer. Lest our lives be seamed and scarred. If we doubt our dear God's promise, If we eaver from His love, So let's bravely do our duties, Or if numbered with the dead. Mrs. Gladys Frost Swan.

WHEN WILL THE WAR END?

Absolute knowledge I have none, But my aunt's washerwoman's sister's son, Heard a policeman on his beat, Say to a laborer on the street, That he had a letter just last week, Written in the finest French. From a Chinese coolie in Timbuctoo Who said that the natives in Cuba knew Of a certain man in Texas town, Who got it straight from a circus clown, That a man 'way down in Sooner, Who knew a man who claims to know, That her seventh husband's sister's niece, Had stated in a printed piece, That she had a son who had a friend, Who knows when the war is going to end.

TO SAVE REJECTED MEN

The call to save the men rejected under the draft expresses the purpose of a number of organizations and leaders in the country, according to the State Department of Health. A new and wide-spread movement to overcome physical defects and improve health conditions is growing out of the war. Everywhere physicians, educators and public officials are aroused to the need of making more effort for peace or war the vast numbers of men rendered useless to the government in the military field. Everywhere the failure of society to guard its man-power is being commented upon and steps are being taken to overcome the results of this failure. In California a Staff of Correctable Defects, composed of prominent physicians, has already done good work. Prominent educators have recently appealed for a new campaign of college athletics which shall reach all students and serve a general purpose of a special group, and thus recognize the imperative need of prompt action in improving the health and increasing the powers of men and women.

KEEP THE CHILDREN IN SCHOOL

With the many pressing matters claiming the attention of the people and the urgent need of every hand at the plow that can possibly be mustered, the temptation is great to slack on school attendance. This temptation should be resisted. No child of school age should be permitted to absent himself or herself from the schoolroom. The urge of education was never greater than at present. The absolute inability of the uneducated to meet present day conditions was never more apparent. And not only is this true, but the education must be more thorough now than was ever before demanded.

The probable duration of the war is a matter of much uncertainty. A slackening of the educational drive would be most unfair to the young people and would place them at a terrible disadvantage; would impose upon them a handicap from which many of them would never recover. If we would have an object lesson of the effects of abandonment of education to the young during the war time, we have only to look to the Southern States of this Republic. During the unfortunate war between the States, when the people of the South were fighting for their very life, education was permitted to languish. The present free school system was then unknown, all schools being of the "subscription" class. These were largely abandoned, and the young people permitted to grow up practically without education. The result is still to be seen in many sections of the South. Men who were in their "teens" when the war broke out, just at the age when they should have been applying themselves diligently to securing an education, were drafted for work on the farms, and from there graduated into the ranks, with the result that they have gone through life without the education that by rights should have been theirs. There are thousands of these men throughout the South today—men of great natural talents who had they gotten the training they should have had, would now be occupying high positions. But their illiteracy has been fatal to any real progress. They are honest, painstaking workers in whatever place they may occupy, but their handicap places them in the ranks of the mediocre, and struggle as they may they can never go higher.

As illustration of the point we wish to impress, let us state that of the entire country the South is today more than any other section presently a young man's country. It is so from the fact that such a large per cent. of the older people are so deficient in education.

The boy or girl can find time to do all the work in other lines that should be imposed upon them and still keep up their studies. A few hours each day given to real work will only nerve them the better for their studies. A few hours of work each day is all that should be required of them under any circumstances. Keep the children in school. They are our future leaders, and we can't afford to lower the standard.

PEOPLE ARE SAVING

It has been pointed out as evidence of how strongly the duty of saving had been impressed upon the English people by the war-savings campaign in that country that in the year 1916 alone they saved billions of dollars of war bonds, the small savings-bank depositors in England increased their deposits in savings banks over $80,000,000, this in face of the fact that the English have been noted as a spending rather than as a saving people.

It seems that a similar process has taken place in America. Two great Liberty Loans were floated in the year just closing, and nearly $6,000,000,000 of Liberty Loan Bonds were purchased by the people. Yet instead of being depleted the savings-banks deposits of the country have been increased. The president of one of the large New York savings banks is quoted as saying on December 20, 1917, "One of the most remarkable things about the Liberty Loan campaign is the small effect they have had on the savings banks accounts, which show an increase. This we lay to the appeals made to the American people to purchase the bonds out of their earnings, paying for them from week to week or from month to month. The people appear to be doing as they have been urged, purchasing the bonds from current savings."

THE BUSINESS OF WAR

The fact is being driven home to the people of this country that we have reached a stage of the war when heroics and stage oratory must be dropped and serious work take their place. We have exhausted our vocabulary and invented other languages in our condemnation of the Hun—which was probably to be expected and necessary in the working up of a general war spirit. Now, however, the preliminaries are over, and we are in the very center of the conflict, whether for good or ill will depend entirely on our future actions.

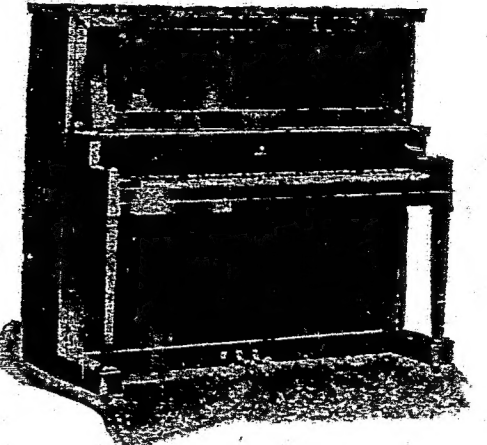

We must realize the seriousness of the fact that a half million of our boys are at this moment facing the greatest engine of destruction this world has ever seen. Other thousands are daily departing to share the labors and bare their breasts to the same dangers. These men have no false or exaggerated notions of the glory awaiting them. They are imbued with but one thought—to remove from the world a great menace to human liberty. To this end they are willing, if need be, to give their lives. Certainly they are giving to the task the very best of their manhood. It is a serious business and they are going about it in deadly earnest.

Are we who must remain at home taking the same serious business view of the work before us? Are we devoting our lives to the end that their lives may be preserved, or, if sacrificed in the cause, that the sacrifice may not be in vain?

DO YOU ATTEND MEETINGS?

One of the best ways we know to break up a local club, a state association or any other organization banded together for mutual benefit is to observe the following rules: 1. Do not attend the sessions. 2. If you do attend, offer no comment at the meeting. 3. Don't think of going if the weather is bad. 4. Refuse to serve on any committees. 5. Then come around and kick when the committee reports. 6. Sit still and criticize—don't get on your feet. 7. If dues are to be paid forget them. 8. Go outside and tell non-members "the club is a frost." 9. Be sure if you are put on a committee when not present. 10. When you are not put on, tell others that a "few run the thing." Then take a good look at yourself and resign—then you will render a real service.

Geneva Heath Mann

Very sad and sudden was the news of the death of little old Geneva Heath Mann, daughter of Elmer Heath (Jr.) and Edwin J. Mann. The baby was taken sick and the doctor called, Sunday. It was thought perhaps she had swallowed a tack as her bowels did not act right. She grew no better, so on Monday morning they took her to Dr. Webber in Lewiston where an operation was performed and found the trouble interception and not caused by anything she had swallowed. She died while under the influence of the ether.

The baby was born April 9, 1917. Mr. and Mrs. Mann have one other child, Lewis Jacob, who is older.

The funeral was held Thursday afternoon at half past one at the Universalist Church. Rev. D. A. Ball of Augusta was expected for the funeral.

Easter Day Observed

The Easter exercises at the M. E. Church Sunday evening were attended by a crowded house. The church was prettily decorated with festoons of green and white with purple bells and paper Easter lilies. Beautiful potted plants and bouquets of real cut flowers, pink and Easter lilies were arranged about the platform. The program consisted of three familiar hymns by the pastor, Rev. L. W. Grundy. An Easter Welcome exercise by Mrs. Grundy's class of junior boys. A primary song by nine little girls. An Easter exercise by six primary grade boys and an exercise by twelve young ladies and girls from the older grades entitled "Portraying the Easter Spirit." The cast of characters are as follows:

The Nations, (in native costume):
India..... Evelyn Small
Turkey..... Agnes Pike
Japan..... Thelma Emery
China..... Mona Billings
Africa..... Olga McKean
Spirit of Easter (dressed in white).....

Attendants, (in white loose garments with blue sashes with the words printed on):
Life..... Evelyn Brock
Light..... Ethel Flavin
Joy..... Ruth Cole
Love..... Mary Briggs
Peace..... Reta Ethridge
Hope..... Della Cole

The nations entered singly and recited each their dark life story, then spirit of Easter with her attendants came marching down the aisle in processional song. While Easter was explaining to the dark nations the new life and hope. Life and Light decorated a bare cross which stood upon the stage and the other four attendants wore bright ribbons in and around them, binding them together with Easter. Then they knelt with her and all sang "Jesus, I come," and then marched off the stage together. The exercise was very pretty.

Several years ago he suffered a severe injury to his foot which has given him more or less pain ever since. Three weeks ago he was suffering so acutely that it was found advisable to remove him to the hospital.

Mr. Maxim was born in Hebron in 1857, the son of Levi and Eliza Buckman Maxim. He had been a life long resident of Hebron.

About fifty years ago he married Abbie Merrill and to them were born two children, Percy and Bert. Since the death of his wife and sons he has carried on his place having two cows, a horse and flock of hens which he cared for.
